EDITOR IN DISTRESS

So, my new room mate to be moved in early and it's been not stop partying since then. I think Sunday night marked four days straight. It would have been six but I'm pretty sure I took Wednesday off. I think. Any ways, a few day of sobriety are in order, plus I'm broke till payday. Best way to detox, though I'm already thinking of calling up friends and saying remember when I bought you drinks when you were broke. Hell, my friends are always broke, so never mind. That's what happens when you're from low places.

I've been at Silver City a lot recently. They have a really killer free huge buffet on Tuesday and Thursday from 11am to 2pm. It's $5 to get in and the drink prices are pretty reasonable. Plus they have some pretty girls there during the day. I'm usually hanging out with my favorite, Brigitte. She's got legs!

After what I thought was a boring UFC 101, UFC 102 was a blast. Lots of knockouts and energetic back and forth fights. Randy Couture VS Antonio Rodrigo Nogueira was a classic. Even though Couture lost the decision, he still has yet to be defeated by submission. Thiago Silva looked mean as hell again after knocking out Keith Jardine. Bummer about Jardine. That guy takes some hard fights and he either knocks you out or gets knocked out. I'm really not looking forward to Anderson Silva versus either Dan Henderson or Nate Marquart. I think those two should fight to see who is the number one contender and if Vitor Belfort beats Rich Franklin than he get Anderson Silva first.

RIDGLEA THEATRE

FT. WORTH, TEXAS

Mistress Sylvia of KNON 89.3FM's "The Dungeon" is hosting "a blackened doom night of metal!" this Saturday, September 5th at the Ridglea Theatre, 6025 Camp Bowie Blvd. in Fort Worth. Providing the carnage are Violent Intentions (Thrashin Alan's of Hard Time Radio's band), HOD (black metal from San Antonio, includes ex-Thornspawn member), Averse Sefira (epic black metal from Austin), Solitude Aeternus and Absu. Mistress Sylvia says the show starts at 8 pm sharp(!) and you certainly do not want to make her mad by being late... It's also Slammin' Jay of Hard Time Radio's 40th birthday, so buy him drinks til he pukes like a 21 year old!

Wayne "The Train" Hancock is finally coming to Dallas this Friday, September 4th to the Granada Theater, located at 3524 Greenville Avenue in Dallas! The undisputed king of Juke Joint Swing is touring in support of his fantastic Bloodshot

Records release, Viper of Melody, so get your dancing shoes on, slick back your hair and be ready for a rollicking evening of music. The Granada website says, "Listen to Wayne, close your eyes and you'll swear you're in a 1940s juke joint," and it's true! Push Rod opens the show at 8 pm.

If you wish to rock in a more modern mode, you may want to check out Trees Friday night instead and enjoy the awesome Vallejo, along with King Zero, Squarewheel and Copperview. Saturday night features the one and only Los Straight-jackets, along with a performance by burlesque troupe Ruby Revue, The Von Ehrics and Spectre 45. (It's also the Them! car show after party.)

At the Granada on Sunday, September 6th is the 6th Annual Freddie King Blues Fest featuring performances by Michael Burks, Kenny Neal, the Wanda King Blues Band, Christian Dozzler Band, Cheryl Arena Band, and the Gregg A. Smith Band. Doors are at 7 pm.

Every Thursday in September, The Cure tribute act Le Cure will be performing at Lakewood Bar and Grill, 6340 Gaston Avenue in beautiful Lakewood in east Dallas. For more information, call 214 826-3888 or www.lbgdallas.com for the full calendar. Or, you can just look for their ad here in the Metro each week!

Of course, there's never a cover at July Alley, 2809 Elm St. in Dallas and this weekend there is going to be a heluva party when The Flamin' Hellcats from Houston take the stage on Sunday night. Then on Labor Day (Monday, which you should have off even though we hard workin' folks at the Metro DO NOT) it's an all day barbeque and band blowout featuring Crusher Bound Cadillac from Denver.

Whatever you do this weekend, have fun, labor not and don't drink and drive... the life you save may be mine!-YRS4

Nola's Nuggets Not Your Ordinary Advice Column

Dear Nola:

I am a single guy living alone and a friend from work asked to use my washing machine when hers broke down. I said yes, and after she left, I noticed that she'd left some of her underwear. Now I'm beginning to think she's hitting on me. What do you think? How should I return them? If I'm wrong about it, it could be a little embarrassing.

Signed--
Laundry Room Mystery

Dearest Curious Launderer...

What a little nugget of a surprise waiting for you in the dryer! Well, my friend, it all depends...were these items straight from Victoria's Secret catalogue? Because if that is so, she's already picking out china. But, if they look like the Faded Glory bargain bin in the Large Hiney Women's dept. at Target....I'd say you are pretty safe. Trust me, if we are wanting to grab your attention, we are going to select our 'left-overs' very carefully. But, of course, we would never do something so surreptitious as drape a push up bustier over our car antennae which happens to be parked right next to yours in the office parking lot. That would be....coy.

As for how to return them, well...let's see. If they are indeed frothy, see-through, skimpy and the kind of apparell that you find yourself wondering, 'what would be the point if she were sleeping alone'....then by all means just put them on under your own clothing and drop by for a surprise return. Clearly, she's hoping to see you again. Otherwise, I say, you have two choices....mail the Big Girl Panties in a plain brown wrapper with no return, or donate to the local Thrift store. If she comes knockin', just shrug, and tell her that her panties now swim with the odd socks that disappear routinely.

---Invite me to the wedding--
Regards,
Nola

Dear Nola:

A few weeks ago, you said if there was a broke, well hung male, to write to you with our number and you would call us with a private piece of advice about money and the size of our package. I did, but you didn't call. Whats up with that?

Rejected in Richardson

My dearest, naive RR:

If someone emails you an invitation to receive fifty million dollars from a foreign country, please do not send them your bank account information. ---just trust me on this.

Blessings....

Man Leaves Kids in Car While at Strip Club

The Negligent Father of the Year Award won't be announced until December, but Kenneth J. Summers, a Florida man accused of leaving two small kids in the car while at a strip club, is an early front runner.

According to a police report, Edmonds arrived at the Oz Gentlemen's Club in Clearwater, Fla., at 11 p.m. on Sunday and belied up to the bar for 20 to 40 minutes. So far so good, right? Oh, except for leaving two 3-and 4-year-old children inside his Dodge Durango in the parking lot.

The 33-year-old was charged with two counts of child neglect and thrown in jail.

We're assuming the two children were Summers', but according to the article, "The nature of the relationship between Summers and the children was not released." So maybe he's even creepier than he already seemed.

Either way, deadbeat dads and/or kidnappers everywhere can take a lesson from this story: Next time you go to a strip club, get a sitter.

Woman Arrested for Running Strip Club in Basement

A Georgia woman was taken into custody after police reportedly discovered a strip club operating in the basement of her home outside Atlanta. More surprisingly, no Atlanta Falcons players were found inside.

At 2:30 a.m. on July 18, cops responded to a noise complaint by a neighbor, who said he saw over 200 teenagers partying in and around the home of Constance Trahan, 28. The arresting officer reported "dancers in the garage and basement area," minors drinking alcohol and a sign that read "1 Dollar Jello Shots."

Trahan's friends maintain that the home was a teen hangout and not a strip club. "It was a regular gathering," said Christyan Hall, who lives with Trahan. "It's just a misunderstanding."

Though no evidence of an official strip club was confirmed, cops apparently found an iPod containing a suspiciously large number of tracks by the Ying-Yang Twins.

The Real Housewives of Atlanta's NeNe Leakes: I Was a Stripper!

Looks like Kim Zolciak isn't the only cast member on The Real Housewives of Atlanta with an explosive stripper past. Nene Leakes has recently admitted that she once shed her clothes for cash and she's not ashamed about it.

"Yes, I was a stripper. Let the judgments ensue. I'm not ashamed. What difference does it make if I danced or not? Is the sun going to stop shining? Is my past taking food out of your mouth? My son was in private school, his father wasn't chipping in for pull-ups or food, I had no job and no money coming in, the rent was past due, and the super told me and my roommate that our condo owner was about to put us out. It was about survival," NeNe announced in her autobiography.

It's quite ironic that her tell-all book is entitled Never Make the Same Mistake Twice while NeNe doesn't think her most controversial job was a mistake at all. In fact, she admits that she enjoyed the power that came with being an exotic dancer, making "$500 off one guy just by turning him on."

Photog Busted Shooting Naked Model at Art Museum

Photographer Zach Hyman is learning the hard way that while people are willing to tolerate a lot of stuff out in public (rudeness, pollution, homelessness, dudes with awful BO), they draw the line at boobs.

Hyman made some waves about a week ago by photographing a nude model on a subway, where the nudity was generally tolerated, allegedly even inspiring applause from commuters.

However, when he tried the same thing out front of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the model was promptly arrested for potentially offending all the people who'd gone to the museum to see non-live nudity.

The official charges against 26-year-old Kathleen "K.C." Neill are public lewdness, while both the photographer and defense attorney are arguing that what Hyman does is not pornographic or obscene. The photographs are part of his "Decent Exposures" (NSFW) exhibit, which features nude models in iconic locations, like the Wall Street bull sculpture and the Brooklyn Bridge.

Hyman himself says he's "inspired by nude paintings at the Met." If artistic inspiration leads to public nudity, then we fully support the arts as well.

BARKIN' OUT LOUD

by Pat "Two Dogs" Snow

more better than reality dictates, and, of course, their dreaded rivals are lousy.

There are times when the rabbit does come out of the hat and a team excels beyond what they'd shown so far, like a team real lousy one year and gets to the playoffs the next. Miami ring a bell? Atlanta? That's why they call it a Cinderella team, because it's so unusual.

But the norm isn't magic, it's the reality of what a team is and fans just try to juke it up.

Here's a current example: last year Green Bay was 6-10, and now this year fan expectations, and some media, predict this outlandish season, like 12-4. C'mon, Cowboys QB Romo sat for a couple a years then came out and did well, Packers QB Rogers sat for a couple and had a 6-10 season last year. You can't put it all on the defense or injuries. The reality train is about to collide with those expectations.

I'll get a truck load of hate mail from the Packer faithful for that.

Here's another: the Eagles faithful are predicting a Super Bowl. Let me tell you what, for that to happen, those fans better be prepared to spend HOURS on the ol' prie-dieu. That's the church kneeling bench.

And now I can add a second truck load of hate mail to the one I normally get from them.

Do you know what the difference between a gambler and a bettor is? A real gambler is a realist, and a bettor is emotional. Bookies make their living off of bettors.

Lawyers don't defend themselves, doctors don't operate on loved ones, and gamblers don't bet on teams they're emotionally attached to. When you can't maintain your objectivity you blind yourself, your decisions are compromised, you might as well just hand your money to the book. I'm sure he'll say thanks.

Ok, let's just see how realistic we can get with the upcoming NFL season. I'm gonna base these predictions on no major injuries and a swing of plus or minus one game.

Last year's record is in parenthesis.

NFC East.

Cowboys: 11-5 (9-7). Giants: 11-5 (12-4). Eagles: 10-6 (9-6-1). Redskins: 8-8 (8-8).

The Giants let their speed rusher and second thousand yard man, Derrick Ward, go to the Buccaneers. Eagles defense ain't the same. Cowboys have best triple running threat in the game. Redskins still working on offense. The flip? Washington could do better and either NY or Philly worse.

NFC North.

Vikings: 10-6 (10-6). Packers: 9-7 (6-10). Bears: 9-7 (9-7). Lions: 4-12 (0-16).

The Vikings could be 12-4 if they don't lose their starting defensive tackles for the first four games, otherwise, they might drop another game or two. Packers don't have quality depth at running back. Bears need to add wide receiver for Cutler. Lions need offensive line help. The flip? Bears better a couple, Packers drop a couple.

NFC South.

Falcons: 10-6 (11-5). Saints: 10-6 (8-8). Panthers: 8-8 (12-4). Buc's: 5-11 (9-7).

For the Falcon's to have been a Cinderella team last year, and have the power ratings they've gotten this year, then they weren't as weak as they seemed. Saints are running better without Bush. Panthers didn't improve over the off season, and in this division that's a disaster. I'm being generous with the Bucs. The Flip? None.

NFC West.

Cards: 10-6 (9-7). 49er's: 9-7 (7-9). Seahawks: 7-9 (4-12). Rams: 4-12 (2-14).

I don't trust the Cards defense much, but that offense is solid. 49er's improved the last part of last season when Singletary took over, defense solid, offense needs help. Seahawks will have better offense but no Cinderella season. Rams will have better defense under new head coach Spagnuolo but offense needs help. The flip? The Seahawks could do a tad better, the Cards stumble.

AFC East.

Patriots: 12-4 (11-5). Dolphins: 8-8 (11-5). Bills: 8-8 (7-9). Jets: 8-8 (9-7).

The Patriots have a better offense and Brady's playing with a vengeance. Dolphins face a tougher division and much tougher schedule. The Bills are near, but the defense needs some help, so does the offense. Forget the hype, the Jet's rookie QB isn't Ryan or Flacco and they don't have the running game to support him. The flip? None.

AFC North.

Steelers: 13-3 (12-4). Ravens: 11-5 (11-5). Bengals: 8-8 (4-11-1). Browns: 6-10 (4-12).

For winning the Super Bowl the NFL schedulers decided to go against policy and award Pittsburgh with a very easy schedule. Ravens defense holds solid along with the running game. Improved Bengals defense helps offense stay in games. Browns need to settle the quarterback situation. The flip? Ravens drop and Browns do some better.

AFC South.

Titans: 11-5 (13-3). Colts: 10-6 (12-4). Texans: 9-7 (8-8). Jaguars: 6-10 (5-11).

The Titans and Colts drop a tad, but this is due more to the schedule and the Texans getting better. The Jag's are just about anybody's guess. The flip? Texans do a bit better and the Titans stumble.

AFC West.

Chargers: 12-4 (8-8). Raiders: 6-10 (5-11). Broncos: 5-11 (8-8). Chiefs: 4-12 (2-14).

The Chargers have six wins in their division, which means they only have to win 6 of 10 to finish out

Late summer in Texas can't be beat. Kids are going back to school and that means baseball and football are starting up at all levels. Got the colleges goin' on, and, of course, we got the pro's. A true smorgasbord of activities. Somethin' for everyone.

Last week we covered how exciting the NFL teams were gonna be this year, but does that really paint a picture of what's happening? Not exactly.

Football season is when I, and generally any media people involved with sports, get the most hate mail. Why? Because football fans come out of the womb with the umbilical cord attached to a football. Hockey fans are just as passionate, there's just not as many. Don't worry, as that sport grows in the U.S. they'll get louder.

Fans have hope and they want a winner. Emotionally they're linked to their favorite team much like a traditional marriage. You could say that this attachment is what makes life so much like a roller coaster for fans, you could, but you'd be off the mark.

Reality is a pleasant place to live in, but when expectations creep into town, that can get more than a little messy. When reality and expectations meet, your insides are fine and you don't suffer any hair loss. But when reality is out of whack with expectations, that's where the train wreck hits your guts.

Guess what? Not just the rabid fans but even the normal ones don't have realistic expectations. In their minds their favorite team is gonna do hugely 12-4. For the Raiders to get 6 wins they'll have to have Garcia start at QB, Russell's a bust. Broncos come up lame and Chiefs get tomahawked. The flip? None.

Why is it that some football coaches won't "hype" up their teams chances for a season, while many others pound that excitement bandwagon? As a coach you stand a better chance of succeeding if you're a realist. Why? Because building the excitement also builds all those fan expectations. You don't meet 'em and fans aren't just crushed, they want somebody's head.

Now what does a coach like New England Patriots Bill Belichick do? He under promises and then tries to over deliver. Think about it: under promise then over deliver. That can be modified to fit many situations. If things don't work out, then nobody's quite as mad at you, and if you do better, they're happier than they wudda been if you'd promised that from the beginning.

Let's say you tell fans you're gonna lose 8 games but only lose 6, they're really happy. But tell those same fans you're only gonna lose 4 and lose 6 and what happens? Yeah, they're mad. You still lost the same six games but its how you got the fans thinking about it. Under promise and over deliver.

Being a football fan does sort of beg the question: what gets a fan closer to happiness, reality or how close to making those expectations? The answer? Fans want their teams to win, so damn the realism and shoot full speed toward those expectations.

I'm fixin' to bark about somethin' that really hacks me off. There's been another, ANOTHER, heat related football death here in Texas. This time it was a 13 year old middle school student up in Vernon. Last Monday, the 24th, the temperature reached 105 and the coach had them out practicing in it for a little more than an hour.

Yes the kids take physicals before they can practice, and no, doctors can't find some things that aren't going to take physical exertion mixed with high temperatures very well. But that for DOGGONE sure doesn't excuse the continued stupid thinking that coaches can take children and adolescents and run them in practices with temperatures in the triple digits.

If you're going to practice in the kind of heat we get, then do the full contact and heavy cardio work in the morning sessions, and practice walking through plays in the afternoon. If schools in session and mornings aren't available, then include plenty of cool down periods with enough hydration. Love of sports is no excuse or defense for over pushing kids in triple digit temperatures.

If parents and school district officials aren't going to use education and common sense to control these practices, then the State needs to step in and mandate rules backed by legal penalties.

Now let's get to barkin' about some serious bumps and bruises.

How's about UFC 102. Couture v Nogueira. Randy Couture's 46 and Antonio Nogueira's 33. I wasn't excited about this fight, not at all. I thought this was gonna be one of those slow, kinda drawn out fights, hey, you got a 46 year old guy in the most physical of fights around and he's up against a guy 13 years his junior. And in mixed martial arts, at 46 you are a long way from a spring chicken. More like an old goose. At 33 you're more like a tired turkey, still strong, but not as spry.

I wasn't alone in this observation. Well, all of us who thought like that went down hard.

There are some really talented people who can stick around a lot longer in their sport as long as they can avoid serious injury and use their experience to the utmost. I thought Couture was going to do this by "out experiencing" Nogueira by keeping him at bay with jabs and kicks.

Neither of these guys came into the cage with the intent of "just doing" enough. They came in to do what this sport demands, and that's to fight it out.

If you're young and think anybody older than 28 can't succeed in MMA, you need to get the video of this fight and watch it many times. If you're older and think you can't do much anymore, you need to get a copy of this fight and play it several times to find out that with exercise and determination, you're still a very vital part of life.

Ok, it's now time for ya'll to start makin' plans for the Mixed Martial Arts Expo in Ft. Worth on Sept

5 and 6. It is THE FIRST Combative Arts expo in Texas at the Amon Carter Exhibit Hall. It's interactive. Does this mean you're gonna get a free kick to the chest or face when you walk in? Nope. It does mean that you'll be able to take pictures and get autographs from some top MMA fighters, and attend many seminars, and ask questions from all sorts of vendors.

Let's also not forget to mark on the calendar that on Sept 19 we have UFC 103 being held right here in Dallas at the AAC.

We got 4 fights set, two at the 170 lb, and two 155 lb 'er's.

The two 170 fights are Mike Swick (14-2) v Martin Kampmann (15-2), and Josh Koscheck (14-4) v Frank Trigg (19-6).

The two 155 lbs are Efrain Escudero (12-0) v Cole Miller (15-3), and Tyson Griffin (13-2) v Hermes Franca (20-7).

The winner of the Swick v Kampmann bout gets to take on Georges St-Pierre for the welterweight title.

With the Expo, the UFC 103, the return of NFL action, the Rangers still being "relevant", and the return of hockey, man, September doesn't get any better than this.

I think we should be using Terence Newman to run back punts and kick returns all the time. Did you see that punt return against the Niners? We need him there to win.

Roger
Dallas

Roger:
Considering he's been prone to injury and how seriously we need work at the corners, I don't agree with you. Crayton can do punt returns, and maybe Ogletree kick offs.
TD

Two Dogs:
Why won't Mangini make a choice for Browns QB, isn't this hurting the team?

Kent
El Paso

Kent:
I can understand how the offense needs to get as much time in with whoever the starter's gonna be, what with how signals are called, huddle presence, that sort of stuff. And it does add a bit more anxiety to the team and fans. Many feel like you that this is an unnecessary game to play and exactly why Mangini was the wrong hire. I bet Quinn.
TD

Two Dogs:
Do you think the Cowboys made too many mistakes against San Francisco and are a long ways from being ready for the season? Too many penalties again so Phillips isn't strong on that? Are we again weak at linebacker with Jason Williams injury?
Ace
Dallas

Ace:
I think my media brethren made too much of our mistakes, which I don't think were that many or the wrong kind, and they didn't make enough of how well the 49er's defense was playing. The Niners are gonna give the NFC West a run this year, and they are gonna make things extremely hard for the Cardinals. Playing penalty free and playing with intensity is a fine line to draw in the sand. On the one hand we shouldn't draw certain penalties, like false starts, on the other hand, we should take the right kind, like those that prevent a touchdown. Jason Williams ankle injury isn't that bad, but it did highlight how weak we are at linebacker. If we lose Spencer, boy, that's gonna hurt.

Two Dogs:
Who's on the bubble that you think the Cowboys should take?

Walk on wide receiver Ogletree, he's earned it.

Papa John's Founder Pays $250K For Beloved Camaro

With the help of a $250,000 reward, the founder of the Papa John's pizza chain has finally reunited with the muscle car he sold years ago to help keep his family's business afloat.

John Schnatter sold the gold-and-black 1971 Chevrolet Camaro Z28 for $2,800 in 1983. The money helped save his father's tavern in Jeffersonville, Ind., and he used the rest to start what would become a worldwide pizza business.

But he still missed his beloved Camaro and spent years searching for it. He created a Web site on the search, held promotional appearances and eventually offered $250,000 to whoever found it.

It turns out he didn't have to leave Kentucky, where the pizza chain is based in Louisville. The car only changed hands twice from the original buyers, ending up with Jeffery Robinson in Flatwoods, about 165 miles to the east.

The original buyers of Schnatter's car heard about the search when he appeared in a TV interview before an NFL game this month. An online search led them to the car blog Jalopnik, which has followed the search and tipped off Papa John's.

Robinson, who bought the car about five years ago for $4,000, recently delivered the Camaro to Schnatter, earning the $250,000 reward. The original buyers will get $25,000 for their help tracking it down.

Schnatter says it looks very much the same as it did when he sold it in 1983, but with a larger motor and fatter tires for drag racing.

Harley-Davidson To Sell Motorcycles In India

Harley-Davidson Inc. said it will begin selling motorcycles next year in India, the world's second-largest motorcycle market, where the company hopes its iconic, heavyweight bikes will find a niche among the country's rising middle class.

The Milwaukee-based company said it has established a subsidiary near Delhi and has begun scouting the country for dealers.

"Given the rapid development of India's economy and physical infrastructure, this is exactly the right time to bring the world's greatest motorcycles to one of the world's largest motorcycling nations," said Mark Levatich, Harley's chief operating officer, in a statement.

India is the world's largest market for motorcycles behind China, but it is overwhelmingly dominated by smaller, inexpensive bikes used primarily for transportation, said Dilip Chenoy, director general of the Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers.

It is also a market dominated by several well-entrenched Japanese and Indian manufacturers. Hero Honda, a joint-venture between Japan's Honda Motor Co. and India's Hero Group, holds the biggest market share among two-wheelers. Honda, Suzuki and Indian motorbike maker Bajaj Auto are also major players.

Still, Harley said the country's growing economy, rising middle class and expanded highway construction has created a market for leisure motorcycle riders.

British engineer Allen Millyard, who's built some pretty insane Kawasaki specials in the past, is at it again. Mr Millyard proves that for now, motorcycling is safe from lithium-ion batteries and electric motors. Yessssss...ssss!!!!

Dual-screen Laptop That Folds Out To Massive 34in Width

This laptop may look chunky, but that's because it conceals not one but two equal-sized screens under its lid.

The Spacebook is the world's first dual-screen laptop and will go on sale at the end of this year.

The first pictures have emerged on the internet creating a buzz on technology blogs

Created by the Alaska-based company gScreen, the laptop will feature either two LED backlit 16in or 17in screens, with one sliding out from behind the other. However, the supercomputer is likely to weigh a backbreaking 11lb.

The company's founder, Gordan Stewart, said they were aiming the portable computer at the growing number of office workers and designers who need a number of monitors to keep track of a multitude of applications at the same time.

He said the first units should cost under $3000 and will go on sale on the US version of Amazon by December.

Mr Stewart told the technology website gizmodo.com that the souped-up hardware is 'absolutely the opposite' of the stripped-down netbooks on the market.

The Spacebook will run Microsoft's Windows 7 and be powered by Intel Core 2 Duo processors.

It will have 4GB of RAM and high-end graphics. There are also plans to include a DVD player so you can discreetly watch a film while at work.

IT'S HARD TO FIND A GOOD DONKEY SHOW

The Weekly Adventures Of OJ Tobias

So I am at the club, nursing a fkin' cocktail and tryin' to relax and, as always, someone is always wanting to fk up my day. One of my soon-to-be ex-employees must have pointed me out as the manager because this cksucker comes up and says,

"Hey, are you a manager here?"

"Are you a cop?"

He responds, "No."

I says, "Yeah, I am King Ding-A-Ling. What's up?"

Boy, was that the wrong thing to do. He starts telling me about all these clubs he has been to and how much money he spends and all I want is for him to get to the fking point. It turns out that one of the girls he tipped on stage (a dollar) did not come to his table and he feels disrespected.

Being the wise man that I am I asked, "What could be worse than being disrespected?"

"I don't know," he said.

"Getting thrown out. So by me a drink and go the fk away," I explained.

This would be a great gig but the customers always seem to fk it up. Shit just kept getting worse.

There is this kindly older gentlemen that valets the mens room at my club. He is in his 50s. He had two strokes, one of which has left him partially paralyzed on his left side. He is also prone to seizures and has crippling arthritis, all of which makes it difficult for him to walk. He limps and it looks very painful. Anyway I can't stand the motherfker. Every time I go take a piss, it is the same fkin ordeal. I go to take a piss and he starts in on me with, "Hi OJ."

"Didn't I tell you not to talk to me?" I says.

"I am sorry OJ. I was just saying hello. I apologize," he replies.

"Why the fuck are you still talking to me? Shut the fuck up!" I yell.

I start washing my hands and then start drying them off with a paper towel that he has handed me.

Then he starts crying. And that really pisses me off. "Stop crying, you big fkin pussy. Fk!!!" Then I throw the paper towel on the floor and say "Pick that shit up."

I am going to fk him up if he doesn't stop fuking with me. What an asshole...

Thanks for letting me vent. I feel better.

I Did My Own Sex Change Operation

An ex-soldier was so desperate to become a woman he performed a DIY sex change operation on himself.

When Roland Mery, a 61-year-old, married, father-of-four from Newport, was told he had to wait two years for gender reassignment surgery he decided he had no option but to do the job himself.

Telling his wife of 23 years, Julie, that he had a headache, Roland took some painkillers and headed for the family bathroom. Using a home-made surgery kit, he removed his genitals, losing two pints of blood in the process.

But for Roland, this drastic action was his only way of setting himself free.

"From the moment I walked down the stairs after I did it I just felt right. I had repressed my feelings for so long," said Roland, who is considering changing his name to the more feminine-sounding Rolande.

"I had worked out exactly how I would do it and rehearsed it many times. It proved to me afterwards that your brain and emotions can overpower you so much. I had rehearsed the whole thing over and over. So when it came to actually doing it, the pain wasn't an issue anymore.

"When I was taken to the Royal Gwent Hospital afterwards, the doctor told me I had actually done quite a good job!"

Whilst Roland was being ferried to hospital in an ambulance, the Mery family bathroom was turned into a crime scene. At first, traumatised wife Julie was suspected of attacking her husband. But when police entered the bathroom, it became clear that he had planned it all himself.

Although Roland had eventually plucked up the courage to admit to his stunned wife that he longed to become a woman, 51-year-old Julie had not believed his claims that he would resort to such drastic action.

It was not until Roland appeared on the stairs in a blood-stained shirt, clutching a towel between his legs, that she realised the full extent of his desperation.

Study: Chronic Use of Buddage Inhibits Male Orgasms

A new study conducted by a team at La Trobe University in Melbourne has found that regular marijuana usage can lead to decreased sexual performance in men, including an inability to orgasm.

The research team analyzed data collected as part of a 2005 telephone survey of 8,656 Australians of both genders between the ages of 16 to 64. Overall, 8.7 percent of respondents said they had gotten high in the last year, with twice as many men (11.2 percent) admitting to marijuana use as women (6.1 percent). Results are revealed that respondents under 36 were more likely to smoke marijuana than older participants.

For males who smoked weed daily, the results indicated they were four times less likely to reach orgasm. However, many of the correlations between marijuana use and sexual performance were made after accounting for factors such as age, tobacco and alcohol use, and occupation.

According to Sharon Johnson, an epidemiologist at the University of Missouri St. Louis, who also has found associations between drug use and sexual problems, the new study does not establish a cause-effect relationship between marijuana and sexual performance.

It is also unclear what kinds of pot the respondents were smoking. It is well known that different strains of cannabis affect the mind and body differently, and that many blends are created to specifically activate feelings of both mental and physical euphoria, including sexual feelings.

Interestingly, even though many male smokers reported sexual problems, they also said they had more partners than non-smokers. Indeed, marijuana users were more likely to have had two or more sex partners in the previous year than men who didn't smoke pot.

Female smokers reported an even stronger trend toward increased sexual activity, and were seven times more likely to have been diagnosed with a sexually transmitted infection in the last year than non-smokers. However, researchers found that female smokers had no more problems in the bedroom than abstainers.

Japanese Men Battle Loneliness By Fostering Relationships With Stuffed Pillows Representing Woman

Lonely Japanese men (and a few women) with rich imaginations have created a thriving subculture ("otaku") in which they have all-consuming relationships with figurines that are based on popular anime characters. The less extreme obsessively collect the dolls. The hardcore otaku "actually believes that a lumpy pillow with a drawing of a (teenage character) is his girlfriend, and takes her out in public on romantic dates.

"She has really changed my life," said "Nisan," 37, referring to his gal, Nemutan. (The otaku dolls are not to be confused with the life-size, anatomically-correct dolls that other lonely men use for sex.)

One forlorn "2-D" (so named for preferring relationships with two-dimensionals) said he would like to marry a real, 3-D woman, "(b)ut look at me. How can someone who carries this (doll) around get married?"

Cereal Contains Dance CD That Redirects Users To Porn Site

A Swedish woman who bought some Nestlé Fitness cereal because of the fitness CD included in the box got an "unpleasant" surprise when the disc directed her computer to a hardcore porn site. Surprise!

Ida Riedel Palmer, 23, told a local media outlet she bought the cereal because of the free "body jam" dance CD, but got more than the advertised content.

"I chose the brand of cereal because of the free CD. I was at first disappointed but then worried that maybe I had a virus on my computer. I called my boyfriend to check if he had been using my computer, but he told me he hadn't," Palmer told The Local.

The boyfriend protested his innocence, at which point Palmer tried the CD in two more computers, with the same result. The CD contained the dance material and a lot more.

"It was not soft porn. It was definitely what I would categorize as unpleasant porn—not that I know much about it," she said.

The Local reports that Nestlé has assured her "they will get to the bottom of the mystery of how Palmer's corn flakes became porn flakes."

The paper did not provide the name of the offending porn site.

20th Century Fox Objects to Porn Parody of 'The X-Files'

Twentieth Century Fox has sent a cease and desist letter to Digital Sin/New Sensations, which is currently in post production on a parody of its television series "X-Files."

The adult studio's X-rated drama, set to release in late September, was given the title The X-Files: A Dark XXX Parody.

In the letter, a representative from Fox demands that Digital Sin/New Sensations change the title of the film and cease use of the "X-Files" mark.

Digital Sin/New Sensations does not believe that its intended product infringes the rights of Fox. However, in the spirit of cooperation, the company has decided to respond to Fox's concerns by adapting the title to The Sex Files: A Dark XXX Parody, removing the website associated with the film and changing the names of the main characters.

The company said the movie would be "the largest budget adult production to date" that has been shot entirely on the Red One Digital Cinema Camera, a task that a handful in the industry have ever attempted.

Jesse Jane Declared ED Awards' Club Favorite Feature of the Year!

Digital Playground's exclusive contract star Jesse Jane® received the elite award for Club Favorite Feature of the Year at the 2009 Exotic Dancer (ED) Awards. Previously, Jesse Jane received a landslide number of votes to become the Adult Movie Feature Entertainer of the Year at the 2007 ED Awards. The international superstar is known around the club circuit for the massive audiences she draws all over the world. Dave Manack, the Associate Publisher of Exotic Dancer magazine says, "Exotic Dancer Publications was pleased to bestow Jesse Jane with our 2009 Club Favorite Feature of the Year."

Clearly one of the biggest names in adult film, Jesse was recognized by nightclub industry professionals who look to distinguish those entertainers who are booked and re-booked again and again due to the success of their feature appearances. With this award, Jesse only strengthens her reign as one of adult entertainment's preminent draws."

Club owners and managers around the world agree that Jesse Jane is the best draw in the industry. Rich, the area supervisor for PT's Sports Cabaret in St. Louis, MO says, "One of the top adult stars in the business...Jesse is a megastar!" "Jesse Jane is one of the most entertaining and energized girls in the industry," says Erv, the owner of Erv's Club in Allentown, PA. "She makes everyone feel wanted and always does well. It's her bubbly personality that puts her above everybody." Jeff Jones, the manager of Atlanta's Pink Pony adds, "Jesse is great. She's always a draw wherever she goes, which is why we had to have her again. Jesse's one of the top porn stars ever!"

Jesse Jane learned about the honor as she was performing to packed crowds in St. Louis over five nights. Jesse exclaims, "I wanted this award so bad, so I was jumping up and down when I heard the news! I take a lot of pride in the routines I perform, the costumes I wear, and the friends I make while on the road. Thank you to Exotic Dancer magazine, everyone who voted for me, the club owners who keep having me back."

Fans can look for Jesse Jane in the September release of "Teachers", the anticipated forth installment of Digital Playground's bestselling vocation series, which includes "Babysitters", "Cheerleaders", and "Nurses". The only certainty is that both girls constantly yearn for a giant cock deep inside their little assholes. "Teagan Vs. Jenna" provides non-stop, salacious blow-jobs, dripping wet pussies, and kinky anal sex, as Teagan and Jenna battle for perverse supremacy.

Anthropomorphic Cartoon Fruit Sex Too Much for Parent

What do you get when you mix sex and candy wrappers? One furious father.

Simon Simpkins of West Yorkshire, England, was picking out some fruity sour candies for his children when he noticed something peculiar about the sweet's packaging. "The lemon and lime are locked in what appears to be a carnal encounter," Simpkins explained. "The lime, whom I assume to be the gentleman in this coupling, has a particularly lurid expression on his face."

Simpkins was so outraged by this "pornographic" discovery that he got into a heated exchange with the shopkeeper. A spokesman for Haribo, the German company that makes the candy, confirmed they like to have "fun" with their wrappers.

We were about to dismiss Simpkins as an out-of-touch crank until we saw another of Haribo's wrappers -- this one of two cherries servicing Mr. Lime. A lime and a lemon is one thing, but that one's just perverse.

Did I Ever Tell You The One About... And other strange oddities of the world

Bear Climbs Ladder To Escape Colorado Skate Park

A bear that wandered into a sunken skateboard park and got stuck was rescued when officials lowered a ladder so it could climb out.

The bear was discovered Tuesday morning in the Colorado resort town of Snowmass. Officials say it apparently was in the park all night, and couldn't get out because of the steep concrete sides.

Workers from the Parks and Recreation Department lowered a long ladder. The bear eventually climbed the ladder and wandered away.

Drunk Man Found At Grocery Store Eating Avocados

Police said a man was arrested at a grocery store after workers found him at a table in the deli, eating avocados, cake and other items. Bismarck Police Lt. Randy Ziegler said the 38-year-old man was intoxicated and had a hearty spread, including cake, cookies and plums, in the deli area of Cashwise Foods about 2:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Ziegler said avocado pits and pistachio shells ended up on the floor and on a connecting table in the store. He said the man told officers he had no money and had no idea how he planned to pay for the food.

New Park Offers X-rated Views Of NYC Hotel Guests

Some guests at a New York City hotel near an elevated park have been offering unobstructed views of themselves.

Guests at the Standard Hotel in Manhattan keep failing to close the curtains as they frolic naked in front of their rooms' floor-to-ceiling windows, easily viewed from the High Line park below. The park recently opened atop an abandoned elevated rail line.

City Council Speaker Christine Quinn has called the hotel's window action "unacceptable."

Aaron Lipman works in the neighborhood and says the shows are "healthy and fun." He says they're like TV's "Wild Kingdom."

The hotel issued a statement Monday saying its managers will try to "remind guests of the transparency" of the windows.

Pair Of Turkeys Found Stuffed With Cocaine

Two turkeys are recovering after being cut open by drug smugglers and stuffed with five kilograms of cocaine.

Police were amazed to find the drug surgically implanted in the bloated birds in Peru.

Acting on a tip-off, officers stopped a Turismo Ejecutivo SRL bus outside the city of Tarapoto in the central jungle state of San Martin, officials said.

Police were puzzled when they found the turkeys in the crate, but didn't find the cocaine, Tarapoto's anti-drug police chief Otero Gonzalez said.

They then noticed that the two turkeys were bloated.

"Lifting up the feathers of the bird, in the chest area, police detected a handmade seam," he said.

A vet extracted 11 oval-shaped plastic capsules containing 1.9 kilograms (4.2 pounds) of cocaine from one turkey.

A further 17 capsules with 2.9 kilograms (6.4 pounds) were recovered from the other, he said.

Their feathers were ruffled but both turkeys survived the procedure.

Police: Detroit Man Stole Woman's Car On 1st Date

Police in Michigan say a first date went from bad to worse when a Detroit man skipped out on the restaurant bill, then stole his date's car.

Police say 23-year-old Terrance Dejuan McCoy had dinner with a woman April 24 at Buffalo Wild Wings in the Detroit suburb of Ferndale. The woman says the two met a week earlier at a Detroit casino and she knew McCoy only as "Chris."

The woman told police that McCoy said he left his wallet in her car and asked for keys. He then sped away in the 2000 Chevrolet Impala.

The Daily Tribune of Royal Oak reports that police identified McCoy by a photo he'd sent to the woman's cell phone, and his phone number.

Florida Police Lure Fugitives With Stimulus Checks

Police in Florida are using the promise of a stimulus check to make some arrests.

Authorities in Fort Lauderdale say they sent letters to fugitives offering them stimulus money. The suspects were asked to call a hot line and set up an appointment to pickup a check from an auditorium where "South Florida Stimulus Coalition" banners hung.

When the fugitives arrived, they were identified and arrested on offenses ranging from grand theft to fraud to attempted murder.

Police spokesman Sgt. Frank Sousa says the two-day sting was dubbed "Operation Show Me The Money." Sousa says the sting saved man hours and allowed police to make arrests in a controlled environment.

Sousa said Thursday the department may try something similar in the future.

US Study Finds Circumcision Doesn't Protect Gay Men From AIDS Virus

Circumcision, which has helped prevent AIDS among heterosexual men in Africa, doesn't help protect gay men from the virus, according to the largest U.S. study to look at the question.

The research, presented at a conference Tuesday, is expected to influence the government's first guidance on circumcision.

Circumcision "is not considered beneficial" in stopping the spread of HIV through gay sex, said Dr. Peter Kilmarx, of the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

However, the CDC is still considering recommending it for other groups, including baby boys and high-risk heterosexual men.

UNAIDS and other international health organizations promote circumcision, the cutting away of the foreskin, as an important strategy for reducing the spread of the AIDS virus. There hasn't been the same kind of push for circumcision in the United States.

For one thing, nearly 80 percent of American men are already circumcised — a much higher proportion than most other countries. Worldwide, the male circumcision rate is estimated at about 30 percent.

Previous research has suggested circumcision doesn't make a difference when anal sex is involved. The latest study, by CDC researchers, looked at nearly 4,900 men who had anal sex with an HIV-infected partner and found the infection rate, about 3.5 percent, was approximately the same whether the men were circumcised or not.

Houston Lesbian Vies For Mayor

Openly lesbian Annise Parker is running for mayor of Houston, Texas, the fourth largest city in the United States. Portland is currently the largest U.S. city to be led by an openly gay mayor, Sam Adams.

Should Parker ascend to the mayor's office, the trip wouldn't take long. The fifty-three-year-old currently serves as the city's second most powerful elected official: city controller.

"This is my city, my home," Parker told gay weekly SOVO.com about why she aspires to become mayor.

"I love Houston and I think it's a great city and a great place to live," she added.

Parker's political resume includes a lengthy section on gay and lesbian activism. She helped organize Houston's early gay pride parades, served as president of the city's GLBT Political Caucus, and acted as a liaison between the gay community and the police.

Gay Vamp Series 'The Lair' Bites Into Third Season

The third season of here! Networks' gay vampire series "The Lair" is set to debut Sept. 4 with even more mystery, intrigue, revenge and sexual tension, according to producers.

Gay adult performers Johnny Hazzard, Colton Ford and Brad Benton (under the name Dylan Vox) are among the returning cast members, along with David Moretti, Peter Stickles and Brian Nolan. Mainstream horror and action star Sybil Danning, last seen in Quentin Tarantino's Grindhouse, will join the cast as enigmatic Frau Von Hess.

According to producers, season three of "The Lair" consists of 13 half-hour episodes that continue the saga of a sleepy island town and its private gentlemen's club, The Lair, where members engage in lust of both blood and sexual kinds.

"Sexy new characters bring more turmoil to the island and leave our cast of characters scrambling to survive," according to a statement released by the producers. "Revenge remains a constant theme, weaving its way throughout the third season. Characters old and new, each with their own agenda, have arrived on the island to wreak havoc. The race is on to see who will wind up with the power on the island and which of the characters will survive."

Texas Liquor Board fires 3 over raid on gay bar

Texas' liquor board fired two agents and a supervisor, disciplined two other supervisors and changed several policies in the wake of a raid at a gay bar that left a customer seriously injured and led to protests, officials announced Friday.

The Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission said agent Christopher Aller and agent trainee Jason Chapman, who participated in the June 28 raid at the Rainbow Lounge, were fired Friday. Their supervisor, Sgt. Terry Parsons, was not at the Fort Worth bar that night but also was fired, effective Sept. 2.

Aller and Chapman failed to report that they used force when arresting the customer or that he was seriously injured, according to a report on the agency's investigation released earlier this month. They also were accused of participating in the raid without their supervisor's approval, disrupting the business during the raid and wearing improper attire, the report states.

Parsons failed to ensure that the agents submitted a report on using force during the arrest, did not take appropriate action after learning they didn't wear proper attire and did not notify supervisors that multiple arrests had been made that night, the report states.

The commission said Parsons' direct supervisor, Lt. Gene Anderson, would be suspended without pay for three days and be on probation for six months, and Capt. Robert "Charlie" Cloud, who oversees the Dallas and Fort Worth TABC offices, has received a written reprimand. Both inadequately monitored new agents' training and inadequately supervised Fort Worth employees and their activities, the agency said.
